PREFACE TO THE THIRTEENTH EDITION.

* * * * *

IT was our intention to publish this edition in January, 1931, but for various reasons the work could not be finished before that time The extra time that has been spent on the work was due also to the other intention of making this edition as useful as possible, both to the Bench and the Bar No pains have been spared in acting up to that intention and it is our hope that the book will satisfy the needs of all those who want correct references and accurate information on questions of Criminal Procedure

Some portions of the commentary which have become redundant in view of the changes in the law in recent years, have been deleted and yet the bulk of the book could not be reduced owing to the additions that had to be made.

REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE

(WITH NOTES ON CLAUSES).

We the undersigned Members of the Joint Committee to which the Bill further to amend the Code of Criminal Procedure 1898 and the Court fees Act 1870 was referred have considered the Bill * * * and have now the honour to submit this our Report with the Bill as amended by us annexed thereto

The Committee at its first meeting proceeded under rule 42 to elect the Honourable Dr Sapru as its Chairman The statement appended to our Report shows the number of the meetings held and the names of the Members who attended each meeting

The following notes on the clauses of the Bill refer to all the important changes which we have made in the Bill. We have made a large number of small drafting amendments to which we do not think it is necessary to draw attention in detail —

Clause 2 —We do not see sufficient reason for differentiating between sections 437 and 528 on the one hand and sections 192 and 407, on the other and we have therefore included the first mentioned sections in the proposed sub-section (3) of section 10 We think that the suggestion that this sub-section should be transferred to section 17 of the Code should be considered if and when the Code is consolidated We would not attempt any definition of the word inferior used in sections 435 and 436 as suggested by the Calcutta Bar Library Club The Courts do not seem to have experienced difficulty in interpreting the word Nor do we agree with the same critics that any amendment is necessary in the last column of Schedule II against section 124 A Their point appears to us to be covered by sections 10 (2) and 18 (4) as proposed read with section 28 (c)

Clause 3 —We think there is force in the suggestion of the Calcutta Bar Library Club that it is not necessary to restrict the appointment of an Additional Chief Presidency Magistrate to persons who are already Presidency Magistrates and have therefore substituted the words any person for the words ' any Presidency Magistrate '

Clause 5 —This clause was introduced by the Committee which sat on the Bill in 1916 They refer to it in their note on clause 2 which makes certain amendments in section 10 of the Code regarding the appointment of Additional District Magistrates We think that if it is necessary in section 29 (1) to refer to the provisions of section 10 then it is also necessary to make a reference to section 18 which as amended will provide for the appointment of Additional Chief Presidency Magistrates But in view of the fact that sections 10 (2) and 18 (4) as proposed provide for the conferment on Additional District Magistrates and Additional Chief Presidency Magistrates respectively of all the powers exercisable by District Magistrates and Chief Presidency Magistrates under the Code and also under any other law for the time being in force, we are not satisfied that any amendment of section 29 is necessary in this respect We have however amended the opening words of the section to bring them into conformity with the language of section 28

Clause 6 —In view of the fact that the Reformatory Schools Act 1897 has to a considerable extent been repealed in Madras by the Madras Children Act 1920 and may be repealed elsewhere we have proposed an addition to the new section 29 A to provide for such cases

Clause 8—We accept the amendments proposed by this clause but as a matter of drafting, have substituted the words "in which" for the words 'to which'

Clauses 9 and 10—Some of our non-official members deprecated any extension of t[illegible] of section 44, and on the whole, in view of the fact that prosecution for contravention of [illegible] of the section are rare, we thought that the matter was not one of great import We have therefore, deleted clause 9.

We are agreed, however that the same considerations do not apply to section 4 [illegible] to give information to the police is laid on a restricted class of persons and [illegible] the additions made to clause (c) of sub-section (1) We think that in the case [illegible] clause (d) the obligation to give information should only arise when a reasonable [illegible] that a non-bailable offence has been committed We have made an amendment [illegible] (3) to meet a difficulty pointed out by the Central Provinces Government

Clause 11—We think that the amendment of section 54 as drafted might [illegible] interpretation that a requisition could only be issued in cases where arrest was [illegible] the first clause of sub-section (1). We do not think that this was the intention and [illegible] therefore, add a separate clause for arrest on requisition We agree with those critics that some safeguard should be provided, and we have therefore proposed to [illegible] the requisition shall reveal the offence or other cause for which the arrest is to be mad[illegible] arresting officer can satisfy himself that the arrest could lawfully have been made [illegible] by the officer issuing the requisition

Clause 13—We think that the words "without unnecessary delay [illegible] ho [illegible] that follows and we have made a slight drafting change to effect this

Clause 14—The sub-sections which the Bill adds to section 88 imply that the Court which issues an order of attachment or endorses the same under sub-section (2) is to investigate and determine a claim or objection We think that a limited power to transfer claims and objections for disposal to subordinate Magistrates would be useful and we have therefore, provided that District Magistrates may transfer such cases to Magistrates not below the rank of second-class Magistrates and that Chief Presidency Magistrates may likewise transfer cases to Presidency Magistrates subordinate to them The other amendments that we have made in this clause are consequential upon this.

Clause 15—We consider that the words "if necessary" add nothing to the section and that they may cause difficulty in that a person charged with an offence under sub-section (5) [illegible] 103 might raise the defence that there was no necessity for an order in writing W[illegible]e, therefore deleted them We also think that a prosecution should not be launched under sub-section (5) unless the order in writing has been delivered or tendered to the person to whom it is addressed

Clause 16—We agree generally that convictions for offences under Chapter VIII of the Indian Penal Code should justify action under section 106 but we have made an exception in the case of section 153 A of the Indian Penal Code

Clause 18—In view of the recent amendments made in the Press and Registration of Books Act, 1867 regulating the editing of newspapers we have made a consequential amendment here We also think that the protection given by the last clause of section 108 should only extend to newspapers which are edited printed and published in conformity with the Act

Clause 19.—We notice that clause (d) of section 110 as redrafted by the Bill, omits the reference to the counterfeiting of currency notes which appears in the present law. We have therefore included offences under sections 489 A to 489 D of the Indian Penal Code in the clause. We have also included abetment.

We considered a suggestion that clause (f) of section 110 should be deleted on the ground that it should be possible to bring every case under clause (f) within the remaining clauses of the section. We decided by a majority to retain the clause.

Clause 20.—In view of the numerous objections to the addition proposed by sub-clause (i) to sub-section (2) of section 117, we are doubtful of the wisdom of the addition and we have therefore omitted it.

We approve of the principle of new sub-section (3) of section 117 which as an alternative to the immediate arrest allowed by the proviso to section 114 enables a Magistrate to make an interim order for security. But we see no reason why the interim order should not be in certain cases one for security for good behaviour, provided that an order of this nature is not made in proceedings under section 107. We have also redrafted the proviso to new sub-section (3) in the hope of making its intention clearer.

We decided in favour of maintaining the amendment of present sub-section (3) which will enable the fact that a person is " so desperate and dangerous as to render his being at large without security hazardous to the community " to be proved by evidence of general repute. Our colleague Saiyad Raza Ali dissents from this view. On the other hand we think that the deletion of the words " or otherwise " would be a mistake as the Courts might hold that some change in the law was intended by their omission, and that the sub-section was intended to be exhaustive of the methods of proof.

Clause 21.—We have adopted the suggestion that the provisions of new section 122 should be elaborated so as to enable a Magistrate to reject a surety previously accepted by him or his predecessor. This involves a few consequential amendments in the section which we have made. We think that the procedure set out in sub-sections (2) and (3) of section 126 should apply in the case of a surety subsequently rejected and we have added a new clause which makes the necessary amendments in section 126. We have also laid down the grounds on which a Magistrate will be justified in rejecting a surety as an unfit person for the purposes of the bond. The three points which we have included are the only points that have been considered by the High Courts.

Clause 22.—We accept the amendments made in section 123 by this clause. We have added another amendment to provide that sub-section (6) of section 123 as it stands shall apply only to cases for security under section 110. We think that in cases under sections 108 and 109 imprisonment in default of furnishing security should be simple.

It has been pointed out that though the object of new sub-section (3-A) is to avoid differences of opinion in a single case between the Magistrate and the Sessions Judge yet the amendment proposed by clause 106 in section 406 may have this very result inasmuch as in a single case one accused person may appeal to the District Magistrate while the case of another accused person will be referred to the Sessions Judge. The Bombay Government have suggested that, where the case of one accused has to be referred to the Sessions Judge under section 123 the case of all should be referred whether they have given security or not. We have adopted this suggestion.

Clause 25.—The principal question in connection with this clause is whether as in the Bill questions of title in relation to rights of way and the like should for the pr

the Chapter be finally decided by the Magistrate, or whether the almost uniform decisions of the High Courts which lay down that the Magistrate must stay proceedings if he is satisfied that the question has been raised bona fide should be followed We prefer to accept the latter view as laid down in Manipurdey v Bidhu Bhushan Sircar I I R 42 Cal 158 and as the case will not arise in all proceedings under this section and more especially as we incline to the opinion that the proposed re drafting of section 135 is not altogether satisfactory we have provided for it as a special case in a new section 139 A Our proposals involve the necessity of laying down clearly that the Magistrate only is competent to inquire into a claim relating to title In view of section 142 and of the fact that in a case of any importance either the person against whom the order was originally made or some member of the public will bring the matter before a Civil Court we do not think it necessary to lay down that the Magistrate may resume the proceedings upon the failure by the person against whom the order was made to institute civil proceedings within a reasonable time

Clause 26 —We accept the amendment made in section 144 by this clause It was suggested to us that section 144 should be elaborated so as to enable a person aggrieved by an order made under the section to require the Magistrate to make a judicial inquiry regarding the truth of the information on which he had acted and thereby to bring in the revisional powers of the High Court. With the exception of Saiyad Raza Ali we think this proposal goes too far and that it is necessary to maintain the executive character of proceedings under section 144 We are however prepared—and we have proposed an amendment to this effect—to lay down that a person aggrieved shall be entitled to apply to the Magistrate and show cause against the order and that the Magistrate shall give him an opportunity to be heard in person or by pleader and shall record an order in writing on the application giving his reasons where he rejects it

Clauses 27 to 30 —In view of the objections of the Bengal Government, we do not think sections 145 147 and 148 should apply to the Presidency towns We have therefore omitted the first amendment made by clause 27 and the references to Presidency Magistrate and Chief Presidency Magistrate respectively in clauses 29 and 30

In order to meet certain difficulties which have arisen in connection with the words receive the evidence produced by them in section 145 (4) we have made an amendment adopting the phraseology of section 244 (1) and have also added a new sub section (8 A) on the lines of section 244 (2) We have made an addition to the first amendment made in sub section (6) of section 145 to make the intention clearer We have introduced a new clause which by an amendment of section 146 will enable a District Magistrate to withdraw the attachment of property at any time when he is satisfied that there is no longer any likelihood of a breach of the peace

Doubts have been expressed as to the procedure to be followed in cases under section 147 and we have introduced amendments here to make it clear that the procedure is to be that laid down by section 145

Clause 31 —In view of the general objection to the amendment which confines investigations to officers not below the rank of Sub-Inspector, we have made an amendment which enables Local Governments to specify a lower rank We recognise that police work in some Provinces might be severely hampered by the first amendment made by the Bill in section 157

With regard to the second amendment we observe that investigations are made under section 157 from information received or otherwise There will not necessarily therefore always be an informant and we have inserted the words if any after the word informant

Clause 33 —We discussed the provisions of the proposed new section 162 at length and considered in detail the opinions received in connection with it We recognise the force of some of the criticisms directed against the section but we do not think that power should be given to contradict by means of police diaries a prosecution witness who has turned hostile and still less should power be given in respect of a defence witness We have therefore, left the clause unaltered

Clause 34 —The intention of the Bill was to leave the position in regard to statements made under section 164 unaltered but to confine the recording of confessions under that section to superior Magistrates We approve the Bill in so far as it deals with confessions and we think that statements also should not be recorded under the section by third class Magistrates at all or by second-class Magistrates unless specially empowered

We consider that a statutory obligation should be laid on a Magistrate acting under the section to warn an accused person about to make a confession that the same may be used against him and we think that the certificate prescribed by sub-section (3) should record the fact that the warning had been given

Clause 35 —Suggestions have been made that section 165 as re-drafted by the Bill goes too far and that it should only permit a search to be made for something specified We think the utility of the section would be largely impaired if effect were given to these suggestions, but we have provided a safeguard by requiring that an officer acting under sub-section (1) or sub-section (3) shall record in writing his reasons for making a search or requiring a search to be made

Clause 36 —In the Bill as introduced an investigating officer could not be below the rank of Sub-Inspector We have proposed to some extent to remove this restriction but we are inclined to think that the powers conferred by section 166 should not be exercised by a police officer making an investigation who is below the rank of Sub-Inspector We realise, however, that there may be administrative difficulties in this connection, and if such difficulties are pointed out by Local Government, we should be prepared to retain clause 36 unamended

Clause 37 —In section 167, however, which confers a power to ask for a remand, we would confine the operation to investigating officers not below the rank of Sub-Inspector

We consider that the Bill does not go far enough in its restriction of the Magistrates who should be authorised to remand to police custody We would confine the power to first class Magistrates and second-class Magistrates specially empowered

Clause 38 —We see no cogent reason for the first amendment of sections 169 and 170, which substitutes the words "upon the completion of an investigation" for "upon an investigation" In the case of 169, we agree that the power contemplated by the section should be exercisable by investigating officers, and we see no reason in this case to restrict the power to officers not below the rank of Sub Inspector With regard to section 170, however, we consider that the direct responsibility for sending up a case should rest with the officer in charge of the police-station Section 168 undoubtedly contemplates that the officer in charge is to assume responsibility and to enable all investigating officers to send up cases under section 170 without reference to the officer in charge would tend to make section 168 of no effect

We considered whether the power to admit to bail in bailable cases should not be extended to investigating officers, but, on the whole, we are inclined to confine this power also to the officer in charge of the police station

Clause 39 —We have deleted this clause, as we think that the power to send a witness to the Court in custody should only be exercisable by the officer in charge of the police-station

Clause 40—Here, again we think that the functions contemplated by section 173 should be exercised by the officer in charge only

We have considered the objections raised to clause (b) which the Bill adds to section 173 (1) On the whole, we are in favour of retaining it But we have as in clause 31, introduced the words 'if any,' to meet the case where there is no informant

Clause 45—We approve the amendment made in section 190 by this clause but we think that Courts should take cognisance under section 190 (1) (b) only upon reports in writing and

Clause 47—We approve generally the amendment of section 195 proposed by the Bill, but in sub-clauses (b) and (c) of sub-section (1) instead of providing for a complaint by the Local Government or some officer duly authorised in this behalf we prefer to have a complaint made by order of or under authority from the Local Government as in section 196

The drafting of sub-section (7) which now becomes sub-section (3) has been the subject of severe criticism and we have introduced an amendment which we think removes the objections which have been raised to the existing sub-section

We have here introduced a new clause in the Bill making a consequential amendment in section 196-A which has apparently been overlooked

Clause 48—New section 196-B is designed to meet the difficulty which arises from the fact that cases under sections 196 and 196-A cannot be properly investigated by the police before complaints are made Doubts have arisen as to whether investigations can be ordered under section 155 (2) by a Magistrate without his taking cognisance of the case The new section will provide for a preliminary investigation (we have substituted the word investigation for the word inquiry) We recognise that it does not altogether meet the case where the desirability of adding a new charge arises in the Sessions Court It has been suggested that this difficulty might be met to some extent by substituting the words proceed to the trial for the words take cognisance in sections 196 and 196 A But on the whole we prefer not to make this change and to leave clause 48 of the Bill unaltered in substance In addition to the alteration referred to above we have made a slight drafting change

Clause 49—It has been pointed out to us that difficulties with regard to section 197 have recently come to light There are certain public servants who are only removable from office by the Secretary of State and it is unreasonable that they should obtain no protection under the section Further in view of section 4 (2) of the Code the word Judge has to be interpreted according to the definition given in section 19 of the Indian Penal Code with the result that Magistrates acting in certain capacities under the Code e g when holding inquiries obtain no protection We have, therefore proposed a re draft of sub-section (1) of section 197 to meet these difficulties We have confined the operation of the section to public servants removable by a Local Government or some higher authority and have provided that the sanction required for a prosecution will be the sanction of the authority which has power to remove Mr Chaudhri would prefer to leave section 197 unaltered save in so far as the Bill proposed to amend it he considers that the amendment proposed by us would enhance the difficulty of obtaining sanction

Clause 51—We note that the case of the absent husband will in view of the amendment proposed in the Bill be provided for twice Under section 199 of the Code as it stands any person who had care of the woman on behalf of the absent husband at the time when the offence was committed can make a complaint whereas under the proviso any other person may with the leave of the Court make a complaint We think this was probably an oversight We have therefore, removed the case of absence from the proviso and have provided in the main section for the leave of the Court in the case where the husband is absent

Clause 52.—We have adopted the suggestion that the new section 199-A should apply to lunatics as well as to minors. We note that there has been some criticism of the drafting of the new section and we have re-drafted a portion of it so as to provide that where the person applying for leave to make a complaint has not been declared by competent authority to be the guardian of the person of the minor or lunatic, and where the Court is satisfied that such guardian has been appointed the Court shall give such guardian a reasonable opportunity of objecting to the application

Clause 53.—We have re-drafted the new proviso to section 200 to bring it more into line with the existing provisos and also to remove the idea that when the complainant is a Court there is any possibility of examining the complainant.

Clause 54.—We approve the alterations made by this clause in section 202 subject to the following remarks. The words "where such examination is prescribed by this Code" cover the case of a Presidency Magistrate referred to in proviso (b) to section 200 We consider that Presidency Magistrates should be required to examine the complainant and to record his statement in cases where the Court intends to postpone issue of process and order an inquiry under section 202 (1)

Clause 55.—We see no force in the introduction of the word "previous," and we have deleted it. We have also made a slight drafting alteration in this clause

Clause 58.—We have given effect to the suggestion of the Calcutta High Court that powers under section 219 should only be exercised by Magistrates who are empowered to commit for trial

Clause 63.—We consider that the re-draft of section 237 proposed by this clause is a great improvement on the existing section We have discussed the various criticisms which have been levelled against the clause and have not seen our way to make any amendment of substance We think it would be dangerous if not impossible, to attempt any definition of the phrase "in the course of the same transaction" An exhaustive definition is not feasible, and if the phraseology is altered the Courts would be deprived of the guidance which they now have from a long series of rulings on the point We do not find that there has been any pronounced conflict of opinion, the reason being that the Courts instead of attempting to lay down general principles as a rule discuss each case on its merits We have adopted a suggestion to substitute the words "is alleged to have been transferred" for the words "has been transferred" in clause (e)

Clause 65.—We have introduced an amendment in section 244 to provide for the case when a complaint is made by a Court and we have introduced a new clause 67 A in the Bill making a similar amendment in section 252

Clause 66.—We are doubtful whether a Magistrate acting under section 349 records a finding All that the section requires him to do is to record his opinion We have therefore, proposed a re-draft of this clause

Clause 67.—We think that the words "or to a Magistrate" near the beginning of this clause were left out on the ground that information to a Magistrate from any person other than a police-officer must be a complaint We think that this view overlooks the words 'with a view to his taking action under this Code' which occur in the definition of 'complaint.' We also think that there is some force in the fact pointed out by the Calcutta High Court that section 190 (1) (c) seems to draw a distinction between information received and a complaint We have therefore, restored the words "or to a Magistrate"

Sub-section (1) as re-drafted does not provide for the case where the complainant is absent at the time judgment is delivered, and we think power should be given in such a case to summon him to appear and show cause

We think that there is some anomaly in enabling a Magistrate who cannot impose a fine of more than Rs 50 to award compensation up to Rs 100 and we have, therefore proposed to reduce the amount of compensation which third class Magistrates can award to Rs 50

In view of section 547, we do not see any necessity to provide in the new sub-section (2-A) that compensation should be recoverable as if it were a fine

We have re-drafted the proposed addition to sub-section (4) to make the intention clearer

We discussed at some length the various merits of the phrases—'frivolous or vexatious" as in the present Code, "false and either frivolous or vexatious' as in the Bill, and " false or vexatious to the knowledge of the party' as in Act IX of 1922 recently passed to provide for compensatory costs in respect of false claims and defences On the whole, we are in favour of the Bill as drafted We do not think that the procedure of section 250 should be used in every false case unless the case is also either frivolous or vexatious In more serious cases it is desirable that the Magistrate should act under section 476 with a view to the institution of a prosecution

Clause 68 —It was suggested to us that the new section 255-A is unnecessary on the ground that though a procedure for the proof of previous convictions is necessary in a Sessions Court to prevent the Jury or the Assessors from being prejudiced by anything they may hear as to the accused s previous record yet in warrant cases the same considerations do not apply On the whole, however, we think the new section may serve a useful purpose and we have retained it

Clause 69 —The criticisms of the amendment introduced by this clause go to two extremes On the one hand it is suggested that the accused should have a right to postpone his decision as to the cross-examination of the prosecution witnesses till the commencement of the next hearing of the case On the other hand it has been suggested that this provision is likely to be grossly abused for purposes of the defence, and that the introduction of the words if the Magistrate thinks fit" is an inadequate safeguard We think that the amendment proposed by the clause is a reasonable compromise between these divergent views and we therefore propose no change

Clause 70 —We have re-drafted this clause for the reason referred to in our remarks under clause 66

Clause 71—The amendment proposed by the Bill would give the Magistrate discretion to discharge the accused when the complainant was absent in any case instituted upon complaint We are inclined to think that this went too far, and we think it is sufficient to extend the application of the section to cases of non cognisable offences

Clause 72 —On the whole we are not satisfied that it is desirable to make offences under section 309 of the Indian Penal Code triable summarily and we have therefore, deleted this clause

Clause 76 —We think the amendments proposed in section 288 effect a considerable improvement but we would lay down that the evidence of a witness before the committing Magistrate can only be treated as evidence for all purposes "subject to the provisions of the Indian Evidence Act" We considered the suggestion that the power conferred by this section should be exercisable by Appellate and Revisional Courts when the lower Court had refrained from exercising it, but, on the whole we were of opinion that no provision should be made in this respect

Clause 77.—We [illegible] think this clause can stand as it is. As pointed out in some of the [illegible] it does not meet the case where the accused states that he intends to produce documentary evidence only. In that case the prosecutor has no right to sum up under section 289 (2) and no right of reply under section 292. We have provided that when the accused adduces oral evidence the prosecutor shall have a right of reply but when the accused produces documentary evidence which is proved by the prosecution witnesses only or which does not require proof then the prosecution shall sum up and the defence shall have the right of reply.

Clause 80. We think there are two defects in this clause as drafted in the Bill. In the first place we consider that it should be clearly laid down, as in the present section, that each assessor should state his opinion separately. Secondly, the amendment made in the Bill did not necessitate the recording of the opinions. We have redrafted the clause so as to remove these defects.

Clause 85.—After considerable discussion of the provisions of section 337 and examination of the large body of opinions on this clause we have unanimously come to the following decisions:—

(a) Instead of including all offences punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to seven years we have made the limit ten years and have added as special cases sections 211, 216-A, 369, 401, 435 and 477 A of the Indian Penal Code.

(b) The Magistrates who should be allowed to tender a pardon should in our opinion be Magistrates of the first class who are inquiring into the offence and any District Magistrate, Presidency Magistrate, Sub-Divisional Magistrate or, with the sanction of the District Magistrate, a Magistrate of the first class having jurisdiction in any place where the offence might be inquired into or tried.

(c) The power to tender a pardon should be exercisable during an investigation as well as after a magisterial inquiry has begun.

(d) We have deleted the words "other than a Presidency Magistrate". We see no reason why Presidency Magistrates should not record their reasons for tendering a pardon.

(e) We do not agree with the Committee of 1916 that it should not be necessary to produce as a witness in the Sessions Court an accused person who has accepted a pardon.

(f) We think all cases in which there is an approver should be committed for trial and we have deleted the provision which enabled cases to be transferred to section 30—Magistrates.

Clause 86.—We accept clause 86 so far as it goes except that we would substitute a certificate by the Public Prosecutor for an allegation by the prosecution as the basis of the prosecution of a person who has accepted a tender of pardon. We consider, however, that it is desirable to lay down some procedure with regard to the plea contemplated by the proviso to sub-section (1). The Bill contains no indication as to when this plea is to be raised and what is to be the effect of it and difficulties of procedure may obviously arise with reference to sections 255, 271 (2) and 272. We, therefore, propose a new section to be added after section 339 which lays down that when a person to whom a pardon is tendered is being tried under that section, he shall at the commencement of the proceedings be asked whether he raises the plea that he has complied with

Sub-section (1) as re-drafted does not provide for the case where the complainant is absent at the time judgment is delivered and we think power should be given in such a case to summon him to appear and show cause

We think that there is some anomaly in enabling a Magistrate who cannot impose a fine of more than Rs 50 to award compensation up to Rs 100 and we have, therefore, proposed to reduce the amount of compensation which third class Magistrates can award to Rs 50

In view of section 547, we do not see any necessity to provide in the new sub-section (2 A) that compensation should be recoverable as if it were a fine

We have re-drafted the proposed addition to sub-section (4) to make the intention clearer

We discussed at some length the various merits of the phrases— frivolous or vexatious' as in the present Code, 'false and either frivolous or vexatious as in the Bill and' false or vexatious to the knowledge of the party as in Act IX of 1922 recently passed to provide for compensatory costs in respect of false claims and defences On the whole, we are in favour of the Bill as drafted We do not think that the procedure of section 250 should be used in every false case unless the case is also either frivolous or vexatious In more serious cases it is desirable that the Magistrate should act under section 476 with a view to the institution of a prosecution

Clause 68 —It was suggested to us that the new section 255-A is unnecessary, on the ground that though a procedure for the proof of previous convictions is necessary in a Sessions Court to prevent the Jury or the Assessors from being prejudiced by anything they may hear as to the accused s previous record yet in warrant cases the same considerations do not apply On the whole however, we think the new section may serve a useful purpose and we have retained it

Clause 69 —The criticisms of the amendment introduced by this clause go to two extremes On the one hand it is suggested that the accused should have a right to postpone his decision as to the cross-examination of the prosecution witnesses till the commencement of the next hearing of the case On the other hand it has been suggested that this provision is likely to be grossly abused for purposes of the defence, and that the introduction of the words 'if the Magistrate thinks fit ' is an inadequate safeguard We think that the amendment proposed by the clause is a reasonable compromise between these divergent views and we therefore propose no change.

Clause 70 —We have re-drafted this clause for the reason referred to in our remarks under clause 66

Clause 71—The amendment proposed by the Bill would give the Magistrate discretion to discharge the accused when the complainant was absent in any case instituted upon complaint We are inclined to think that this went too far, and we think it is sufficient to extend the application of the section to cases of non cognisable offences

Clause 72 —On the whole, we are not satisfied that it is desirable to make offences under section 309 of the Indian Penal Code triable summarily, and we have, therefore, deleted this clause.

Clause 76 —We think the amendments proposed in section 288 effect a considerable improvement, but we would lay down that the evidence of a witness before the committing Magistrate can only be treated as evidence for all purposes "subject to the provisions of the Indian Evidence Act" We considered the suggestion that the power conferred by this section should be exercisable by Appellate and Revisional Courts when the lower Court had refrained from exercising it, but, on the whole, we were of opinion that no provision should be made in this respect

Clause 94.—We are inclined to agree with those critics who point out that the re-draft proposed by sub-clause (a) in subsection (1) of section 362 does not get rid of the difficulty that a Magistrate has to make up his mind as to the sentence he will impose before he begins trying the case. We do not see how this difficulty can be got rid of, but we think that the amendment proposed has the advantage of bringing the language of this section into conformity with the language of sections 263 and 264, and we would therefore retain this sub-clause.

In order to meet difficulties that have arisen we have introduced a subsection laying down that Presidency Magistrates in cases subject to appeal shall make a memorandum of the substance of the examination of the accused, and we have introduced a new clause making a consequential amendment in subsection (4) of section 364.

The non-official members who constituted a majority in the Committee, expressed their dissatisfaction with the distinctions drawn in the Code between Presidency Magistrates and other Magistrates and in particular with regard to this clause would have liked to see Presidency Magistrates required in warrant cases at all events, to keep as full a record as any other Magistrate. But the Committee as a whole held that there was some force in the contention put forward by numerous High Court Judges that no change should be made in the Code affecting to any extent the special powers of Presidency Magistrates until a much fuller inquiry had been made into the question of their status, power and procedure. We desire to take this opportunity of placing on record our hope that it may be possible to appoint a small Committee to undertake this investigation.

Clause 95.—In view of the objections taken by the Judges of the High Courts to the amendment of section 365, we have modified the clause in such a way as to provide that rules shall be made prescribing the manner in which the evidence shall be taken down in cases coming before the Courts and that the evidence shall be taken down in accordance with those rules. We do not think it necessary that the Judges of the Court should take down the evidence themselves, but we are of opinion that there should certainly be some record.

Clause 96.—We do not see any necessity to limit the privilege of dictating judgments in the manner provided by the Bill, and we have therefore, re-drafted this clause. We think it desirable to lay down that orders under sections 118 and 123 (3) should be deemed to be judgments for the purposes of the section.

Clause 97.—The proposal to repeal the words "other than a High Court" was intended to remove the possibility of reading section 369 as if it gave High Courts unlimited powers of altering or reviewing their judgments. But there are cases other than those referred to in sections 395 and 484 in which a review of judgment is possible. We would refer to section 434 and also to clause 26 of the Letters Patent of the Presidency High Courts. The Indian Legislature has power to amend the Letters Patent of the High Courts and the amendment introduced by clause 27 might be interpreted as an intention to amend the Letters Patent in this respect. We have, therefore, re-drafted the amendment so as to provide that no Court shall alter or review its judgment save as provided by or under any law from the time being in force or, in the case of a High Court, in its Letters Patent.

Clause 98.—This amendment of section 378 has been condemned by a majority of the Judges who have expressed an opinion on the Bill. In view of the fact that the difficulty which the amendment is intended to meet is probably of rare occurrence, and that the second portion of the proviso will be inapplicable in the case of Judicial Commissioners Courts which do not at present consist of five Judges, we prefer to leave the law as it is and we have deleted this clause.

Act, 1912 We do not consider that a power is required to vary the order in any other respect in view of the provisions of sections 473, 474 and 475 of the Code, which appear to provide for all contingencies including absolute release or release on security. We would, therefore, omit proviso (b) to section 466 (2) and sub-section (2) of section 471 and would retain in section 474 the words "section 466 or" which clause 124 of the Bill proposes to remove We see no reason why the provisions of section 474 should not apply to cases coming under section 466 We would, however, draw attention to the fact that the word "detain is in the Code being substituted for the word "confine,' and would recommend that an opportunity should be taken to make a corresponding amendment in section 35 of the Indian Lunacy Act

With regard to the first proposed proviso to sub-section (1) of section 471, we note that the Local Government has power under section 475 to deliver lunatics to relatives after an order has been passed under section 471, and the Local Government only exercises its powers under that section on receipt of expert advice We do not think it desirable to enable a Court, to exercise the same power on its own responsibility, and we would point out that the Committee of 1916 itself expressed the opinion that once a person has been ordered by a Court to be detained as a lunatic, provision for his care periodical examination, release, etc., should be a matter for the Local Government and not for the Courts The inclusion of the proviso which we have referred to is inconsistent with this opinion, and for these reasons we have deleted it

Clause 126—The changes that we have made in the proposed section 476 are not of great importance We have provided that a Court can act on application made to it or suo motu and after such preliminary inquiry, if any, as it thinks necessary For the words 'committed before it or brought under its notice in the course of a judicial proceeding" we have substituted the phraseology used in the proposed new section 195 We have substituted "may make a complaint" for "shall make a complaint' and, in view of the criticism of the words "nearest first-class Magistrate" we have provided that a complaint should be sent to a first class Magistrate having jurisdiction For the words 'if he thinks expedient in the interests of justice," which we think might hamper a Magistrate in the exercise of his powers of adjournment, we have substituted "if he thinks fit" In order to give effect to the decision arrived at in our consideration of clause 114 that proceedings under section 476, etc, should be subject to revision, we have introduced words which will make it necessary for the Court to record an order

We have entirely re-drafted sections 476-A and 476-B Section 476-A in our re-draft is now confined to the case where a superior Court takes action after no action whatever has been taken under section 476 in an inferior Court Section 476-B provides specifically for an appeal against the making of a complaint or against a refusal to make a complaint

Section 477 is inconsistent with section 476 as proposed by the Bill because the latter section made it obligatory on the Court to make a complaint and send it to a first-class Magistrate This defect has been removed by one of the amendments we have made in section 476, but we are doubtful whether section 477 should stand We considered a proposal to enable a Court of Session to try a case committed to it after a complaint had been made by itself, but we do not think it desirable that a Court which has instituted the proceedings should dispose of the case itself, and we have, therefore, introduced a clause into the Bill repealing section 477

Clause 127.—We notice that the original Bill proposed to raise from Rs 50 to Rs 100 the amount awardable as maintenance under section 488 This proposal was rejected by the Committee of 1916, but, in view of the passing of the Maintenance Orders Enforcement Act, 1921, which enables our Courts to enforce summary orders up to an amount of £2 a week, we think the limit in our own law might well be raised to Rs. 100. This involves a consequential amendment in section 489.

Clause 128.—We do not consider that the addition made by this clause to section 491 is particularly necessary or desirable. It is true that in respect of extradition proceedings an alternative procedure is laid down in section 3 of the Indian Extradition Act, 1903, but having regard to the view taken by the Calcutta High Court in I. L. R. 31 Cal. 164 as to the scope of its functions under the section, we think this clause might well be deleted.

Clause 129.—We are doubtful whether the second amendment made by the Bill in section 492 really effects what was intended. In some places there are special Police Acts and they do not invariably give the Local Government power to delegate to Assistant Superintendents the powers of a District Superintendent. Moreover, there is a variety of nomenclature and we think it better to leave it to the Local Governments to prescribe the rank of police-officers who may be appointed Public Prosecutors for the purposes of a particular case.

Clause 132.—It was pressed upon us that the provisions as to bail in non-bailable cases are much too stringent. One suggestion made to us was that in section 497 we should delete all words after "may be released on bail" in sub-section (1) and the whole of sub-section (2). The result would have been to give all Courts full discretion in the matter of allowing bail in non-bailable cases, and we felt generally that this was going too far. What we have done is to allow the Court or police-officer to release on bail in a non-bailable case unless there appear to be reasonable grounds for believing that the accused has been guilty of an offence punishable with death or transportation and as some safeguard against this we have provided for a review by the Sessions Court or the High Court of any order admitting to bail in a non-bailable case. Some of us—including all the official members of the Joint Committee—are of opinion that this decision goes too far and that in the end it will not tend towards the administration of justice.

Clause 135.—We note that preference has been expressed for the draft of sub-section (7) as contained in the original Bill and, on the whole, we have preferred to restore the original draft. It provides that in proceedings against a surety a certified copy of the judgment may be used to prove the commission of the offences which constituted a breach of the bond but that this proof may be rebutted. It was indeed suggested to us that we should make a certified copy of the judgment conclusive proof but we are inclined to think that this would go too far.

Clause 139.—We have extended the scope of the proposed sub-section (3) of section 522 to Courts of confirmation and reference.

Clause 141.—We have found section 526 somewhat difficult to deal with. One class of opinions presses for greater safeguards against frivolous, vexatious or dilatory applications for transfer. Another class deprecates any measures which makes a transfer more difficult to obtain. We think it is unavoidable to retain in the Code some provision for the compulsory adjournment of a case when an intention to apply for a transfer has been notified. But we recognise that the provisions of the section, as they stand, have lent themselves to gross abuse, and therefore, we feel that greater safeguards are necessary. For these reasons in the first place, we maintain the principle of the new sub-section (6-A) which enables the High Court to award costs in dismissing an application. We have, however, modified it to this extent that it will enable the High Court in cases where it is of opinion that the application was frivolous or vexatious, to award such amount by way of reasonable costs in the High Court and the Court below as it thinks fit. We think the last sentence of new sub-section (6-A) was superfluous in view of the provisions of section 547.

Act 1912 We do not consider that a power is required to vary the order in any other respect in view of the provisions of sections 473, 474 and 475 of the Code which appear to provide for all contingencies including absolute release or release on security. We would, therefore, omit proviso (b) to section 466 (2) and sub-section (2) of section 471 and would retain in section 474 the words "section 466 or" which clause 124 of the Bill proposes to remove We see no reason why the provisions of section 474 should not apply to cases coming under section 466 We would, however, draw attention to the fact that the word 'detain is in the Code being substituted for the word 'confine,' and would recommend that an opportunity should be taken to make a corresponding amendment in section 35 of the Indian Lunacy Act

With regard to the first proposed proviso to sub-section (1) of section 471, we note that the Local Government has power under section 475 to deliver lunatics to relatives after an order has been passed under section 471, and the Local Government only exercises its powers under that section on receipt of expert advice We do not think it desirable to enable a Court, to exercise the same power on its own responsibility, and we would point out that the Committee of 1916 itself expressed the opinion that once a person has been ordered by a Court to be detained as a lunatic, provision for his care periodical examination release, etc., should be a matter for the Local Government and not for the Courts The inclusion of the proviso which we have referred to is inconsistent with this opinion and for these reasons we have deleted it

Clause 126—The changes that we have made in the proposed section 476 are not of t importance We have provided that a Court can act on application made to it or suo motu lter such preliminary inquiry, if any, as it thinks necessary For the words "committed or brought under its notice in the course of a judicial proceeding' we have substituted logy used in the proposed new section 195 We have substituted may make a comhall make a complaint' and, in view of the criticism of the words "nearest first class have provided that a complaint should be sent to a first class Magistrate having words 'if he thinks expedient in the interests of justice,' which we think trate in the exercise of his powers of adjournment we have substituted to give effect to the decision arrived at in our consideration of clause section 476, etc should be subject to revision, we have introduced o record an order and 476-B Section 476-A in our re-draft is akes action after no action whatever has been tion 476-B provides specifically for an appeal usal to make a complaint

476 as proposed by the Bill because the latter complaint and send it to a first-class Magise amendments we have made in section 476,

g Bill repealing section 477

posed to raise from Rs 50 to Rs 100 the proposal was rejected by the Committee s Enforcement Act, 1921, which enables Clause 151.—It would appear that the retention of section 559 in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, was accidental, its provisions being covered by those of section 14 of the General Clauses Act, 1897. We have accordingly inserted the new section 559 A proposed by the Bill as section 559 in place of the present section.

Clause 152.—We have slightly elaborated the provisions of this clause. We understand that a High Court has recently held that it had no power to direct the expunction of objectionable matter from a record. We think it desirable that it should be made clear that this clause is intended to meet such a case.

Clause 153.—We are of opinion that the salutary provisions of section 562 of the Code are capable of extension, more especially in view of the provisions of sub-section (3) of the new section proposed by the Bill. We have accordingly provided that any offender who is over the age of 21 years may be bound over on conviction of any offence not punishable with imprisonment exceeding seven years and that all women and all persons under the age of 21 may be so bound over when convicted of offences not punishable with death or transportation for life. We have altered the proviso to sub-section (3). We think that the High Court should in no case inflict a more severe sentence than could have been inflicted by the Courts which tried the case.

Clause 154. We think that the penal provision introduced by this clause is out of place in a Code of Procedure. We have proposed an alteration which in part meets this objection.

Clause 155.—We approve generally the changes made in Schedule II. We have made certain further amendments consequent upon the changes we have made in the clause which amends section 345 of the Code and the amendments made in the Indian Penal Code by Act XVI of 1921.

Clauses 156 and 157.—We have made the necessary changes in Schedules III and IV of the Code to bring them into line with the amendments which we have made in the body of the Bill.

Clause 158.—In view of our proposals with regard to section 526 we have deleted the form of the bond originally referred to in that section. We have added a form of bond under section 388.

2. The Bill of 1917 was circulated for opinion as a result of a motion in the Indian Legislative Council on 26th September, 1917. The present Bill contains a few additions to the Bill of 1917. We understand that these deal with defects in the Code brought to light after the Bill of 1917 had been circulated and that for the most part the opinions of Local Governments and High Courts on these additions were invited by the Government of India. It is, we presume for these reasons that the Legislature did not direct circulation of the present Bill and we do not think that the Bill has now been so altered as to require republication. We recommend that it be passed as now amended.

We consider that the new sub-section (8) proposed by the Bill was unsatisfactory in serveral respects The opening words of the sub-section contemplated notification at any stage of the case provided that it was made before the commencement of a day's hearing But words occurring later in the sub-section indicated that its application was confined to a notification made before the accused was called upon to enter on his defence The proviso, therefore, which dealt with an intention to apply for a transfer formed after the accused had entered on his defence was not a true proviso to the sub-section We considered whether sub-section (8) should not refer to another application made at any stage and whether in such case discretion as to an adjournment should not be left with the Court except when the applicant gave secutity in which case the adjournment should be compulsory, on the whole, however, we have decided in favour of rejecting the proposal to provide for a bond Apart from other objections we think it was calculated to enhance the delays already involved by section 526 Our amendment of the Bill therefore, provides for a compulsory adjournment at any stage of the case except that a Sessions Court may refuse to adjourn when it is of opinion that the application has been unreasonably delayed

It was suggested to us that we should add a new clause to section 526 providing for a transfer of a case when the accused has reasonable ground for apprehending that he will not get a fair and impartial trial We think, however, that the rulings of the High Courts are quite clear on the point and that it would be a mistake to amend the section

Clause 143 —We think that some of the powers which the new sub-section (4) proposes to confer are already provided for by sub-section (2) of section 192 We also think that this new sub-section goes too far in providing unnecessary powers of transfer of cases within the district and actually in enabling a District Magistrate to confer on a Subordinate Magistrate powers which he does not himself possess We think it sufficient to provide first class Magistrates with a power to withdraw cases or recall cases made over to Magistrates subordinate to them under sub-section (2) of section 192 and we think it unnecessary to confer any further power in respect of the transfer of cases upon Presidency Magistrates

Our colleague, Saiyad Raza Ali would remove altogether the power of District Magistrates and Sub-Divisional Magistrates to transfer cases under section 528 and would place the power of transfer in the hands of the Sessions Courts This proposal met with little or no support. We think on the whole that it would cause administrative difficulties and would hamper applications for transfer in view of the fact that there are many districts in which there is no resident Sessions Judge.

Clause 146 —We have omitted the proviso contained in sub-section (1) of the propose new section 539 providing that an accused person shall not be compelled to make an affidavit as the first place it will be extremely difficult to say what the expression ' accused person mean and, secondly, the proviso is in conflict with the provisions of sub-section (4) of section 526 view, however of the opposition manifested in certain quarters, we think that sub-section (3) of proposed new section 539 A might be omitted

We think it desirable to provide that the copy of the memorandum referred to in section (2) of the new section 539 B shall be given free of cost

Clause 148 —In the new sub-clause (c) to be added to section 545 we hart ... ank reference to the offence specified in section 414 of the Indian Penal Code.

Clause 149 —We think the Court should not be bound to exercise the po ... itself, the new section 546-A in trivial cases, and have accordingly substituted the wo word "shall" in sub-section (1) of the proposed new sub-section w sub-section (2)

India D[illegible] addresses together with a brief memorandum of the points in regard to wh[illegible]. I will of course rest with the Committee to decide what evidence they w[illegible]

Mr. T. C. P. G[illegible], K.C., Barrister-at-Law, Advocate General, Bengal, was subsequently added as a Member of the Committee.

4. The origin of the p[illegible] in question can probably be traced to the jealousy with which [illegible] and later the jurisdiction of the Courts of the Hon'ble East India Company over Europeans was regarded. For a long time the Courts of the Company exercised no such [illegible] at all, the administration of civil and criminal justice in India being confined in such cases to the Courts of the Presidency towns. The system was undoubtedly based on the idea that the Crown [illegible] earliest introduction of its subjects into India provided for the administration of [illegible] them a system analogous to that which existed in England. Moreover previous to 1833 [illegible], not in the service of the Crown or Company, were not allowed to [illegible] more than ten miles from a Presidency town without special permission. On the repeal of this provision the Court of Directors in 1834 gave instructions that British born subjects should be subjected to the same tribunals as Indians. They observed that—

> The [illegible] of the Charter Act of 1833, after reciting that the removal of restriction on the [illegible] with the country will render it necessary to provide against any mischiefs or dangers th[illegible] proceeds to direct that you shall make laws for the protection of the Natives [illegible] obligation which in our view you cannot possibly fulfil unless you render both Natives and Europeans subject to the same judicial control. There can be no equality of protection where justice is not equally and [illegible] terms accessible to all.

Accordingly Europeans were made amenable to the Civil Courts outside the Presidency towns in 1836 by an Act associated with the name of Lord Macaulay. The question of the trial of Europeans by all the Criminal Courts outside the Presidency towns was raised in 1849 by the Government of Lord Dalhousie, and again in 1857. It was decided, however, to await the introduction of the revised Criminal Law in such areas. The previous procedure therefore continued until 1861, that is to say European British subjects resident outside the Presidency towns were tried by the Supreme Courts which were stationed in the Presidency towns except in respect of certain minor offences for which they were triable by European Justices of the Peace. In 1861 the Supreme and Sudder Courts were combined into the High Courts of Judicature. English Judges were then enabled to go up-country and try cases against Europeans. Even up to 1872, however, the general principle was that criminal jurisdiction over European British subjects was exercised only by Courts established by the Crown and not by the Courts of the country.

5. In 1872, when Sir James Stephen was Law Member, the jurisdiction of the ordinary Criminal Courts was definitely extended to Europeans, but at the same time special forms of procedure based on English law and limitations of the powers of the Courts were framed for their trial.

6. In 1883 the well known Ilbert Bill was introduced with the object of giving jurisdiction to Indian Sessions Judges and certain Indian Magistrates to try European British subjects. Owing to the feeling aroused by the Bill, its scope was reduced, and a compromise was effected, a fresh Bill being introduced and passed as Act III of 1884. The main effect of the compromise was that while Indian Sessions Judges and District Magistrates were enabled to try European British subjects the rights to claim a mixed jury, that is, a jury consisting of not less than half Europeans, was allowed in all sessions cases (not merely in those triable by jury in the case of Indians) and also before District Magistrates. The provisions contained in that Act are still in force.

To

HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL OF INDIA IN COUNCIL

1. In accordance with the instructions contained in the Home Department Resolution No F 105, Judicial, dated the 27th December, 1921, we, the members of the Committee appointed by the Government of India to consider the existing racial distinctions in the criminal procedure applicable to Indians and non Indians, and to report to the Government of India the modifications of the law which we recommend should be adopted, have the honour to report for the information of Government our conclusions on the questions requiring examination.

2 In the second Session of the Legislative Assembly, in September, 1921, Mr N M Samarth moved a resolution on the subject The resolution, after amendment, was passed in the following form —

"That, in order to remove all racial distinctions between Indians and Europeans in the matter of their trial and punishment for offences, a Committee be appointed to consider what amendments should be made in those provisions in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898 which differentiate between Indians and European British subjects, Americans and Europeans who are not British subjects in criminal trials and proceedings and to report on the best methods of giving effect to their proposals'

3 Accordingly the Government of India issued a resolution, which, after detailing the resolution passed by the Assembly, proceeded as follows —

'The Governor General in Council has already accepted the principle that it is desirable that there should be equality of status for all people in this country in the matter of criminal trials and proceedings, and has decided to appoint a Committee to consider the existing racial distinctions in the criminal procedure applicable to Indians and non Indians and to report to the Government of India the modifications of the law which they recommend should be adopted

The Hon'ble Dr Tej Bahadur Sapru, LL D, Law Member of the Governor-General's Council, has consented to preside over the Committee, and the following have agreed to serve as members —

7 In the Presidency towns European British subjects have had and have no privileges before the Presidency Magistrates, but they can claim a mixed jury before the High Court

8 It is interesting to note that, whereas at the time of the Ilbert Bill controversy, the question was whether Indian Judges and Magistrates should try Europeans or not, the subject which excites most interest at the present moment is the right of an European British subject to claim a mixed jury

9 Prior to 1882 the law provided that in the case of Europeans (not being European British subjects) and Americans in any trial before the Court of Session the accused had the right to be tried by a jury of which not less than half should consist of Europeans or Americans, if such a jury could be procured By the Code of 1882 this right was retained only in respect of sessions cases normally triable by jury , while in cases triable with the aid of assessors it was provided that half the number of assessors, if practicable and if claimed, should be Europeans or Americans This provision is still in force

10 In anticipation of the examination of witnesses who appeared to give evidence before the Committee the Government of India consulted Local Governments on the question under examination The Committee have also received and studied a large amount of important documentary evidence including memoranda from all the chief European Anglo-Indian and Indian Associations Chambers of Commerce and other leading Associations in India Appendix A to this report gives the names of the witnesses who gave evidence before the Committee, and also of those who were invited to give evidence before the Committee but who were unable to do so We examined at considerable length the twenty-six witnesses some of whom came from distant places at much personal inconvenience They were from the following provinces six from the United Provinces four from Bengal, including one who also represented non official Europeans in Assam, four from Madras, three each from Bombay, Bihar and Orissa and the Central Provinces, two from the Punjab and one from Burma They were distributed as follows thirteen Hindus, seven Europeans, four Muhammadans, one Parsi and one Anglo-Indian The witnesses were mostly leading members of the legal profession who practise either in the High Courts or in the Mofussil, and we have had the benefit of their valuable experience Every endeavour was made to ascertain public opinion, and in order to secure the most competent witnesses in the country, invitations to give evidence were issued by the Government of India on three occasions that is in October, December and January last A statement of all the evidence placed before the Committee is given in Appendix B

11 The most important provisions requiring examination are those contained in the Criminal Procedure Code, especially Chapter XXXIII and sections 4 22, 111, 188, 275, 408, 416, 418 and 491 of that Code, together with section 65 (3) of the Government of India Act, section 56 of the Indian Penal Code, the Penal Servitude Act XXIV of 1855 and the European Vagrancy Act IX of 1874

12-A The principal distinctions between the provisions relating to Indians and those relating to European British subjects are as follows —

i) B virtue of the provisions of section 443 of the Criminal Procedure Code, European h subjects are not triable by a second or a third-class Magistrate and are triable by a Magistrate of the first class if he is a Justice of the Peace and the case of District and Presidency Magistrates, an European British

(ii) The jurisdiction of Additional and Assistant Sessions Judges over European British subjects is restricted by section 444 of the Code to cases where they are themselves European British subjects and in the case of Assistant Sessions Judges to those who have been Assistant Sessions Judges for at least three years and have been specially empowered in this behalf by the Local Government

(iii) The sentences that may be awarded by first class Magistrates District Magistrates and Courts of Session in the case of European British subjects are limited by sections 446 and 449 of the Code to three months imprisonment and a fine of Rs 1 000 six months imprisonment and a fine of Rs 2 000 and one year s imprisonment and unlimited fine, respectively

(iv) In the case of trials before a High Court Court of Session or District Magistrate European British subjects are entitled by sections 450 and 451 of the Code to be tried by jury of which not less than half shall be Europeans or Americans

(v) Section 456 of the Code gives to European British subjects remedies in the nature of habeas corpus which are more extensive than those provided for Indians by Chapter XXXVII

(vi) Under the provisions of sections 408 and 416 of the Code European British subjects have more extensive rights of appeal in criminal cases than Indians in that they may appeal against sentences in which an appeal would not ordinarily lie, and they also have the option of appealing in the alternative to the High Court or to the Court of Session

(vii) Under section 111 the provisions of the Code regarding the taking of security for good behaviour in sections 109 and 110 do not apply to European British subjects in cases where they may be dealt with under the European Vagrancy Act of 1874 and

(viii) The definition of High Court is not so wide in the case of European British subjects as it is in the case of Indians

B The only distinction between the provisions relating to Indians and those relating to Europeans (not being European British subjects) and Americans is that under the provision of section 460 of the Code in every case triable by jury or with the aid of assessors in which an Europe an (not being an European British subject) or an American is an accused person not less than half the number of jurors or assessors must if practicable and if claimed be Europeans or Americans

13 To turn to the particular changes which are proposed

The first one is the amendment of the definition of European British subject in section 4 (1) (i) of the Code—It is generally admitted that this is not a satisfactory definition, for instance it includes a non European domiciled in Natal but not an European domiciled in East Africa Having regard to all the facts we recommend that the definition of European British subject should be amended by striking out all the words in clause (i) of section 4 (1) (i) after the word Ireland thus omitting all reference to the British Possessions or Dominions outside Great Britain and Ireland If this alteration is made, there will still

7 In the Presidency towns European British subjects have had and have no privileges before the Presidency Magistrates but they can claim a mixed jury before the High Court

12 A The principal distinctions between the provisions relating to Indians and those relating to European British subjects are as follows —

(i) By virtue of the provisions of section 443 of the Criminal Procedure Code European British subjects are not triable by a second or a third class Magistrate and are only triable by a Magistrate of the first class if he is a Justice of the Peace and save in the case of District and Presidency Magistrates an European British subject

Proviso as to European Vagrant

16 Section 111 —We consider that this section should be repealed and that sections 109 and 110 should apply equally to Europeans and Indians But at the same time we recommend that the European Vagrancy Act IX of 1874 should be retained as it is required in connection with the deportation of undesirable Europeans

The majority of the members of the Committee consider that an examination should be made of the question whether the period of three years prescribed in section 110 as the period for which imprisonment may be ordered in default of the production of suitable security is not excessive We are of opinion that the subject is one that deserves the attention of Government and we venture to suggest that Local Governments and High Courts should be consulted thereon

Liability of British subjects for offences committed out of British India

17 Section 188 —This section is in accordance with the provisions of the Government of India Act, no change is proposed

Person charged outside Presidency towns jointly with European British subjects

Section 214 —Amendments consequential on our proposals will be necessary

Jury for trial of persons not Europeans or Americans before Court of Session

Section 275 —The provision contained in this section should be extended to trials before the High Court—vide paragraph 24 below Consequential amendments will be necessary

Right of European British subjects to appeal to High Court or Court of Session

18 Section 408 proviso (a)—We are of opinion that this proviso should be repealed

Saving of restrictions on appeals from sentences on European British subjects

19 Sections 413 414 415 and 416 —We recommend the repeal of section 416 We consider however, that outside the Presidency towns in the case of all persons both European and Indian there should be an appeal against any sentence of imprisonment passed by a Magistrate This involves a substantial modification of the general law of the land, and will to a certain extent, increase the work of the Sessions Courts Nevertheless we are of opinion on general grounds and apart from the particular case of the European British subject that an appeal should lie against any such sentence It is to be noted that short sentences of imprisonment should where possible be avoided and the number of sentences of one month and under passed by District Magistrates and first class Magistrates should not as far as we can judge be very large In the case of a sentence passed in a trial by a Court of Session we would allow no appeal in respect of a sentence of one month or under The question of an appeal in the case of sentences of imprisonment raises some difficulty in the case of summary trials It has been suggested that, in order to meet this difficulty, all summary trials should be abolished We are not however prepared to recommend such a serious change in the law of the land We recommend instead that an appeal should lie against any sentence of imprisonment passed by a Magistrate trying a case summarily Appeals lie even at present in certain cases against sentences passed in a summary trial and section 264 of the Criminal Procedure Code deals with the record in such cases Dr Sapru and Sir William Vincent observe that the Government of India will ultimately be guided in a great measure by the opinions of Local Governments and High Courts on the proposal to extend the right of appeal in the cases mentioned in this and in the next sub-paragraphs, as it may involve much increase in judicial labour difference between the definition of European British subject in the Criminal Procedure Code and the wording of section 65 (3) of the Government of India Act which runs as follows —

"The Indian Legislature has not power without the previous approval of the Secretary of State in Council to make any law empowering any Court other than a High Court to sentence to the punishment of death any of His Majesty's subjects born in Europe or the children of such subjects or abolishing any High Court."

We are of opinion, however, that the definition of European British subject should not be assimilated to this description in the Government of India Act. We recommend two additions to our proposed definition The first is that subjects of His Majesty born, naturalised or domiciled in any of the European, American or Australian Possessions or Dominions of His Majesty or in New Zealand or in the Union of South Africa should be classed as European British subjects when they are actually serving in India in His Majesty's British Army, Navy or Air Force The reason for this addition is that when such persons are transferred to India they have no option They are not in the same position as those who of their own free choice come to reside in India The second addition that we recommend is that subjects of His Majesty born naturalised or domiciled in any of the European American or Australian Possessions or Dominions of His Majesty or in New Zealand or in the Union of South Africa who at the date of the adoption of our proposals are in His Majesty's Indian Army, Royal Indian Marine or Indian Air Force should be classed as European British subjects

Both the proposed additions will affect only a comparatively small number of men A minority of the Committee, including the Government members, are of opinion that no distinctions should be made between persons serving in the British Forces and those serving in the Indian Forces

14 The next question is the definition of High Court in section 4 (1) (j) of the Code — We recommend that the definition of High Court should be the same in the case of Europeans as in the case of Indians the Secretary of State in Council being requested to give his previous approval to this change, having regard to the provisions of section 65 (3) of the Government of India Act We are, however, of opinion that in regard to certain sections of the Criminal Procedure Code, only the Chartered High Courts, the Chief Court of Lower Burma and the Courts of the Judicial Commissioners of the Central Provinces Oudh, Sindh and Upper Burma should be included in the term "High Court"

Justices of the Peace for the Mofussil

15 Section 22 —We do not think it necessary to express any opinion on the question whether Justices of the Peace should be retained outside the Presidency towns We are, however, of opinion that whether the title is retained or not, it should not be a qualification for the trial of an European British subject We are also of opinion that such appointment outside the Presidency towns should not be restricted to Europeans In regard to the trial of European British subjects generally we consider that outside the Presidency towns the only distinction should be that the Magistrate in question, if the accused so desires should not be below the rank of a first class Magistrate We recognise that in this respect a slight distinction will still remain between European British subjects and Indians, but we believe that no objection will be taken on that account so far as offences punishable with imprisonment are concerned We recommend however, that offences punishable with fine not exceeding Rs 50 only (and no other punishment) in respect of which an European is accused may be tried by any Magistrate having jurisdiction normally in respect of such offences

Sentences which may be passed by provincial Magistrates.

22 Section 446.—In our opinion District Magistrates and first-class Magistrates (whether empowered under section 30 or not) should not be allowed to pass on European British subjects any sentence other than a sentence of imprisonment which may extend to two years, including such solitary confinement as is authorised by law or of fine which may extend to Rs. 1,000. It will be observed that these are the limits of the ordinary powers of a District or first-class Magistrate with the exception that they do not include a sentence of whipping. This is subject to our previous observations in paragraph 19. The majority of the Committee are of opinion that sections 30 and 34 should be repealed on the ground that a sentence of more than two years imprisonment should not be passed without the assistance of a jury or assessors.

Dr Sapru and Sir William Vincent consider that the Government of India must ultimately be guided in a large measure by the opinions of the Local Governments and the High Courts on the question whether it is practicable to repeal those sections. Some members of the Committee are of opinion that if after enquiry it is decided to retain these sections they should apply equally to Europeans and to Indians.

Commitment to be to the High Court in certain cases.

23 Sections 447 and 448.—These sections should be repealed.

Sentences which may be passed by a Court of Session.

24 Section 449.—We are of opinion that Sessions Courts should have power to pass the same sentences on Europeans as on Indians. Accordingly Sessions Judges and Additional Sessions Judges should have power to pass sentences of death in the case of Europeans and Indians alike subject as usual to confirmation by the High Court. This provision is to be read together with our proposal that there should be a mixed jury, that is a jury of not less than half Europeans or Indians as the case may be in trials before the High Court and Sessions Court. In the very limited number of cases in the Sessions Court in which Europeans will be tried without a jury, they will be tried with European assessors. We develop this point later. We adopt the principle that a Sessions Judge or Magistrate should have power to pass the same sentence in the case of an European as of an Indian and that safeguards should be obtained by other methods than by restricting the punishment which the presiding Judge or Magistrate can inflict. We recommend therefore that the Secretary of State in Council be requested to give his previous approval in accordance with section 65 (3) of the Government of India Act to this change in the law. As in the case of Magistrates we make an exception in respect of the punishment of whipping.

Jury or assessors before High Court or Court of Session.

25 Section 450.—The most difficult question for the Committee to decide is that of the trial by jury of European British subjects. This is the point on which non-official European opinion is most emphatic namely that it is essential that a mixed jury should be retained. We have decided accordingly that the mixed jury should remain both in the High Court and in the Sessions Court in all cases which are to be tried by jury under our proposals subject however, to certain provisions and safeguards namely:—

I The same law as to the composition of the jury shall apply to Indians as to Europeans that is to say the majority of the jury if an Indian accused so desires shall consist of persons who are not Europeans or Americans. This is now the law in Sessions Courts and section 275 should be so amended as to make it apply to the High Court also.

II. There shall be a right of appeal both on law and facts both from conviction and acquittal, in the case of Europeans and Indians alike, except where the jury are unanimous and the Judge agrees with the verdict of the jury. The further conditions of the appeal are described in paragraph 20 above. This proposal is recommended as an alteration of the general law of the land, but in particular it is intended to form an integral part of our proposal to maintain the mixed jury.

III. The High Court Special Jury List should, in our opinion, be revised and it should no longer be limited to 200 Europeans and 200 non-Europeans. It should include all who are qualified, to whatever nationality they may belong. This revision will probably increase the proportion of non-Europeans in the list. This proposal involves the repeal of section 312 of the Code.

In the following respects the existing law should be maintained, namely, the number of the jury save with the two exceptions noted below will remain as at present; the number required for conviction or acquittal in the High Court and in the Sessions Court will continue unchanged; and right of reference in the Sessions Court under section 307 will also remain as it is; this will be in addition to the right of appeal. As it is proposed to grant a right of appeal from the verdict of the jury and the judgment thereon both on points of law and of fact in certain cases tried in the exercise of its original criminal jurisdiction by a High Court, a certificate from the Advocate-General, as laid down in the Letters Patent, will not be necessary in every case of appeal from a decision in the High Courts of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay. This proposal will involve the amendment of the provisions of the Letters Patent by the Indian Legislature.

The exceptions that we propose in regard to the number of the jury are:—

(i) In the Sessions Court the number should be any uneven number from five to nine which the Local Government may select. Thus "five" should be substituted for "three" in section 274, as the minimum number of the jury in a Sessions Court, and

(ii) in murder cases before the Sessions Court we are of opinion that the number of the jury should, if practicable, be nine.

26. Another difficulty arises from the fact that an European can claim a trial by jury in any case in a Court of Session, whereas a very large proportion of the cases in Courts of Session in which Indians are accused are tried with the aid of assessors. To meet this difficulty we consider it necessary to make special provision for cases in a Court of Session in which racial considerations between Europeans and Indians are involved, and also to substitute for the trial of Europeans by jury, in certain cases in Courts of Session where racial considerations do not arise, trial with the aid of European assessors.

Our proposals are:—

(i) In any district in which for any class of offence Indians are normally triable in a Court of Session by jury the accused whether Indian or European shall be entitled to claim a mixed jury, that is to say, a jury consisting of not less than half of persons of his own nationality.

(ii) In any district in which for any class of offence Indians are normally triable in a Court of Session with the aid of assessors but in which racial considerations between Europeans and Indians are involved the accused whether Indian or

European shall be entitled to claim a mixed jury on the ground of the existence of such racial considerations The Sessions Judge will decide the preliminary question whether in any particular case racial considerations are involved and no appeal or revision shall lie against his decision on this preliminary point He will have to decide who is the person really aggrieved The exact wording of the provision will be a matter for the consideration of the draftsman but where the accused and the complainant are of different nationalities that is where one is an European and one an Indian racial considerations shall be deemed to arise

(iii) In any district in which for any class of offence Indians are normally triable in a Court of Session with the aid of assessors and in which no racial considerations are involved the accused whether Indian or European shall be tried with assessors who if the accused so claims shall all be of the nationality of the accused We add the further recommendation that in all cases triable with the aid of assessors there shall be if possible four and in any case not less than three assessors The existing provision in section 284 is that two or more assessors shall be chosen as the Judge thinks fit

It will be seen that so far as the European is concerned his right of trial by jury will be taken away only in a limited number of cases in which no racial considerations are involved and in such cases instead of being tried by a jury of five (the usual number in the Court of Session) of which he can claim that not less than three shall be Europeans he will be tried probably with four and in any case with not less than three assessors who will all if he so claims be Europeans In the case of an Indian he will be able to claim a mixed jury in any case where racial considerations are involved and in any case triable with assessors there will be not less than three Indian assessors

27 In warrant cases outside the Presidency towns in which racial considerations between Europeans and Indians are involved the accused and the complainant shall each have the right to apply to the trying Magistrate on the ground of the existence of such racial considerations for committal to the Sessions Court for trial by a jury of which not less than half shall be of the nationality of the accused If the Magistrate decides in favour of the applicant that is to say, if he finds that racial considerations are involved he shall proceed to make a preliminary inquiry as in cases triable by the Sessions Court If the Magistrate finds that no racial considerations are involved the applicant shall have the right to appeal to the Sessions Court against the decision of the Magistrate on this preliminary point We would give no right of appeal or revision from the decision of the Sessions Court on the preliminary point as to whether in any particular case racial considerations are involved or not We have already in paragraph 26 indicated what we mean by racial considerations and when they shall be deemed to exist

The Hon ble Sir William Vincent would prefer to give the right mentioned in this paragraph to the accused only and not to the complainant also

28 Similarly in summons-cases outside the Presidency towns we are of opinion that where—

(i) racial considerations as already defined between Europeans and Indians are involved and also

(ii) the offence is punishable with imprisonment the accused and the complainant shall each have the right to apply to the trying Magistrate that the case be sent to a Bench of two Magistrates of the first class one Indian and one European trial, on the ground of the existence of such considerations If the trying Magistrate decides against the applicant on this preliminary point, the applicant shall have the right to appeal to the Sessions Court against the decision of the Magistrate on the point

When the case is tried by the abovementioned Bench, in the event of a difference of opinion between the Magistrates the case, with the opinions of the Magistrates will be laid before the Sessions Judge, who, after taking such further evidence, if any as he may think fit, shall pass such judgment, sentence or order in the case as he thinks fit and is according to law From the decision of such a Bench there shall be an appeal in accordance with the ordinary law An appeal against the decision of the Sessions Judge will lie to the High Court if an appealable sentence is passed by him

Jury before District Magistrate

29 Section 451 —We are of opinion that trial by jury before Magistrates should be abolished

Details of procedure in cases in which European British subjects are concerned

Sections 452 to 455 inclusive —Consequential amendments only

Provisions corresponding to habeas corpus

Sections 456 to 458 to be read with section 491 —We are of opinion that the rights which Europeans enjoy of the nature of habeas corpus should be extended to Indians throughout British India In this and other matters we would not interfere with the existing procedure in respect of Indian States

Applications of Acts conferring jurisdiction

Section 459 —Consequential amendments only

Trials of Europeans or Americans

30 Sections 460 and 461 —These sections deal with Europeans (not being European British subjects) and Americans We are of opinion that unless any of the privileges in regard to any such persons are found to be based on treaty, they should be abolished

Procedure in trials of European British subjects Europeans or Americans

Sections 462 463 and 534—Consequential amendments only

31 The Penal Servitude Act XXIV of 1855 and section 56 of the Indian Penal Code —We are of opinion that section 56 of the Indian Penal Code and Act XXIV of 1855 should be repealed The commutation of a sentence of transportation can be effected under sections 401 and 402 of the Criminal Procedure Code and the ordinary Prison Rules which apply to Indians and Europeans alike We do not take objection to the commutation of sentences of transportation in the case of Europeans but we are of opinion that statutory distinctions in this respect are not necessary We are informed that the question of abolishing sentences of transportation as a form of punishment is under consideration

32 European Vagrancy Act IX of 1874 —It will be for the draftsman to consider whether any change is necessary in the European Vagrancy Act, having regard to the proposed repeal of section 111 of the Criminal Procedure Code

33 No change is necessary in the provisions relating to Presidency Magistrates

34 To put our main proposals in respect of the modifications of the Criminal Procedure Code, into tabular form, their effect will be—

For European British subjects	For Indians
I An appeal will lie against any sentence of imprisonment passed by a Magistrate There will also be a right of appeal against any sentence of fine exceeding Rs 50	The same
II In every case before the High Court and Sessions Court in which he is tried by a jury the accused will be entitled to claim a mixed jury that is a jury consisting of not less than half of the nationality of the accused subject to—
(a) An appeal on facts as well on law in the case both of conviction and acquittal when the jury are not unanimous or when the jury are unanimous but the Judge does not agree with them.
(b) A probable increase in the number of Indians in the Special Jury List.
(c) A provision that the jury shall be not less than five and in all murder cases if practicable nine	The same
III The accused in the Sessions Court will be entitled to claim to be tried by jury in any class of case which is normally triable with assessors if racial considerations are involved.	The same
This provision is in addition to the right of trial by jury in all cases in the High Court and also in Sessions Courts where such a method of trial is prescribed under section 269 of the Criminal Procedure Code
IV In any class of case in the Sessions Court which is normally triable with assessors and where no racial considerations are involved he will be tried with assessors who will not be less than three in number and who if the accused so claims will all be of his own nationality	The same
V In a warrant-case in which racial considerations are involved the accused and the complainant will each be entitled to claim the committal of the case to the Sessions Court for trial by a jury	The same
VI In a summons-case where racial considerations are involved and where a sentence of imprisonment can be passed the accused and the complainant will each be entitled to claim that the case shall be tried by a Bench of two first-class Magistrates one Indian and one European reference in case of disagreement being to the Sessions Judge	The same
VII In any other case triable by a Magistrate if the accused so desires the trial will be by a first-class Magistrate except in cases punishable with fine of not more than Rs. 50 only	It is not practicable to extend this to Indians.
VIII Judges and Magistrates outside Presidency towns will have power to pass all sentences which they are authorised by law to pass except whipping and sentences under section 34 of the Criminal Procedure Code on which subjects inquiry is proposed	The existing arrangements continue pending the result of the proposed inquiry

Note —Clauses I IV, V, VI VII and VIII apply only outside Presidency towns

We also propose the repeal of section 460 which provides for a special procedure in the case of Europeans (not being British subjects) and Americans

35 We regret that one member of the Committee Mr Stuart Roffey a representative of the non official Europeans of Assam owing to private and personal reasons was unable to attend the meetings of the Committee and had to resign his seat thereon

Some members of the Committee were unable to attend our final meetings

36 In conclusion we desire to place on record our deep sense of obligation to our colleague Mr Percival I C S M L A who has throughout the proceedings of this Committee acted as Secretary and brought to bear upon the work infinite patience and great industry which has been of great assistance to us in the preparation of this report We also desire to express our acknowledgments to Mr Tonkinson Joint Secretary in the Home Department for the assistance he has given us generally

The object of s. 303 is merely to enable the Court to ascertain whether the jury intended to bring in a verdict of guilty or not guilty and for no other reason is a Judge entitled to interrogate the jury after they have given their verdict. 34 C. W. N. 233.

767. S. 342, Note 10

Provided the accused is given opportunity to explain the evidence against him it is immaterial whether he is examined before or after framing the charge. 32 Bom. L. R. 598

768. S. 342, Note 12—

It is the duty of the Magistrate when dealing with ignorant individuals accused of technical offences to go very thoroughly into the evidence and where they are not defended by advocates to give them some assistance in putting up defence pleas. A. I. R. 1930, Rangoon 349.

83[illegible]. S. 421, Note 7—

Once a pleader is heard and the record called for, then though in many cases it may be useful to hear the pleader again yet there is no illegality in summarily dismissing the appeal without hearing the pleader again. 9 Patna 504

1072. S. 439 (5), Note 22

S. 439 (5) cannot constitute a bar to District Magistrate's action under s. 435 in case of acquittal by a Subordinate Magistrate. The Local Government and the District Magistrate are distinct and non interchangeable terms. The mere fact that he may be able in his executive capacity to move the Local Government to appeal under s. 439 (5) cannot bar his taking action under s. 435. A. I. R. 1930, Allahabad 741.

963 S. 439—

Section 439 need not be read subject to s 417 and a reference can be entertained when the Local Government has not been moved to prefer an appeal or having been moved has refused to prefer an appeal. A. I. R. 1930, Lahore 159.

976. S. 439, Note 81—

A private complainant can apply in revision to the High Court for enhancement of sentence 1930 A. L. J. 1324.

977 S. 439 (6), Note 87—

When an appeal has been dismissed either after hearing or summarily, it is not open to the accused, in showing cause why the sentence should not be enhanced, to go again into the merits of the case 32 Bom. L. R. 1286.

1052 S. 491—

The High Court has power to revise the sentences of Military Courts if a Validating Act is not passed It is for the Crown to prove the necessity and legality of any sentences by Courts Civil or Military, if not made under the ordinary law then under any Act of Indemnity such as an Ordinance 32 Bom. L. R. 1618.

1087 S. 514, Note 15—

The liability of sureties to produce an accused person does not terminate by the mere fact that the accused is kept under arrest for a day or two between the date of the bond and the date when he was to be produced in Court. The liability of the surety does not terminate if the production of the accused becomes impossible, owing to his escape from custody during the intermediate arrest A. I. R. 1931, Patna 19.

1128 S. 526 (3), Note 39—

Since 1923 proceedings under s 476 are taken only by the Court in the interest of justice when it thinks fit to do so It is not now open to a private person to institute proceedings after taking sanction from the Court under s 195 A private person may move the Court to take such proceedings but a person moving the Court to take such action is not a person interested within the meaning of s 526 (3) 34 C. W. N. 936.

1155 S. 537, Note 12—

Where accused persons were tried jointly under ss 302 and 304 and other sections of the Indian Penal Code and the jury constituted only of seven persons and not of nine persons as required by law Held that the jury was illegally constituted and the illegality cannot be cured by s 537 The fact that no appeal was preferred against the acquittal under s. 302 and 304 makes no difference, all the accused were affected by the illegality 34 C. W. N. 765 = 51 C. L. J. 578.

An Act to consolidate and amend the Law relating to Criminal Procedure

Preamble

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to Criminal Procedure it is hereby enacted as follows —

PART I.

PRELIMINARY

CHAPTER I

Short title commencement

1. (1) This Act may be called the Code of Criminal Procedure 1898, and it shall come into force on the first day of July 1898

Extent.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, but in the absence of any specific provision to the contrary, nothing herein contained shall affect any special or local law now in force or any special jurisdiction or power conferred or any special form of procedure prescribed by any other law for the time being in force, or shall apply to—

(a) the Commissioners of Police in the towns of Calcutta Madras and Bombay, or the Police in the towns of Calcutta and Bombay,

(b) heads of villages in the Presidency of Fort St George or

(c) village Police-officers in the Presidency of Bombay

Provided that the Local Government may, if it thinks fit [* * *]† by notification in the Official Gazette, extend any of the provisions of this Code, with any necessary modifications, to such excepted persons

---

Extent I.—Local.

Notes.—1 British India shall mean all territories and places within Her (now His) Majesty's dominions which are for the time being governed by Her Majesty through the Governor-General of India or through any Governor or other officer subordinate to the Governor-General of India General Clauses Act X of 1897, s 3 (7). See also s. 15 of the Penal Code

* For Statement of Objects and Reasons see Gazette of India 1897 Part V p 383; for Report of the Select Committee see ibid 1898 Part V p 19 and for Proceedings in Council see ibid 1897 Part VI pp 238 and 254 and ibid 1898 pp 22 101 and 1 5

† The words with the sanction of the Governor-General in Council were omitted by the Devolution Act XXXVIII of 1920

'British India' is not synonymous with 'British Possession' As the Native States and the tributary Mahals are not governed through the Governor-General of India, they are not British India and the Code as such does not extend to them So it does not extend to the Civil Station at Rajkot, 10 B. 186; the Wadhwan Civil Station, 14 Bom. L. R. 876; the territory of Mohurbhunj, 8 C. 985; the tributary Mahal of Keonjhur, 16 C. 667; and the lands occupied by the Hyderabad State Railway, 25 C. 20 (P.C.) The Civil and Military station of Bangalore is not British India, 12 M. 39. See also 5 Bom. L. R. 873.

2. Places to which the Code has been extended.—(a) Schedule Districts in Ganjam and Vizagapatam (Fort St George Gazette, 1898, Pt I, p 306), 23 M. L. J. 670 = 12 M. L. T. 601 = 13 Cr. L. J. 850; (b) Laccadive Islands (13 M. 353), (c) the Andaman and Nicobar Islands, (d) Sonthal Purgannas (Calcutta Gazette, 1898, Pt I, p 665) See 12 C. 536, (e) Angul District (Calcutta Gazette, 1890, Pt I, p 799), (f) Districts of Hazaribagh Lohardaga (now Ranchi) Manbhum, Palaman, Purganna Dhalbhum and the Kothen in the Singbhum District, (Calcutta Gazette, 1898 Pt I p 714), (g) Purganna of Manpur, (h) British Baluchistan (Gazette of India, 1898, Pt. II, p 221), (i) Chittagong Hill Tracts (s 4 of the Chittagong Hill Tracts Regulation I of 1900, see however, 27 C. 654), (j) Upper Burma including the Shan States, (k) Cochin and Chin Hills (portions of the Code are applicable to certain Hill tribes, see Burma Gazette, 1898, Pt I, p 322 and Burma Code Edition, 1899, pp 628 and 629), (l) Island of Perim, 10 B. 258.

The Code has also been extended to the British Protectorates on the East Coast of Africa (order of Council 1897), Somaliland (order, 1899), the Persian Coast and Islands (1897) and Zanzibar (by an order in Council of 1884, under which Zanzibar is to be treated as a District in Bombay, the Judicial Assistant being the District Magistrate, the Consul General, the Sessions Judge, the High Court of Bombay, the High Court and the Secretary of State, or with his assent the Governor General in Council, the Authorities to exercise the powers of a Local Government and of the Governor General in Council)

In 24 B. 471, it was held regarding Muscat that though under certain circumstances in virtue of an order in Council of 1876, the Bombay High Court is vested with Original Criminal Jurisdiction, in the exercise of which it would apply the provisions of this Code, it had no Appellate or Revisional Jurisdiction

3. Places where the Code is no longer in force.—The Garo Hills, the Khasia and Jaintia Hills, the Naga Hills, the North Cachar Sub division of the Cachar District, the Mikir Hill Tracts in the Nougong District, the Dibrugarh Frontier Tracts in the Lakhimpur Districts, the Lushai Hills (see Assam Gazette, 1898, Pt. II, p 788), and the North Cachar Hills, 26 C. 874.

4. COLONIAL NOBILITY

RECOGNISED BY THE IMPERIAL GOVERNMENT.

CANADA.

The Patent of Nobility of the Feudal Barony of De Longueuil (Grant), with remainder to descendants male or female and by tenure, signed by King Louis XIV. granting this title to Charles le Moyne for distinguished services, is remarkable as creating not only a Territorial Barony, but also conferring a title of honour upon himself and his descendants, whether male or female. The cession of Canada to England by the Treaty of Paris in 1763, made no change in the legal right to hold honours; since this period each successive head of the family has, by assumption of right, used the title; but it was not officially recognised by the British Government until December 4th, 1880.

MALTA.

The Nobles of Malta take precedence among themselves according to the date of creation of Nobility, and irrespective of title. They are officially addressed as "Most Noble," while their eldest sons enjoy the courtesy title of Marchesino, Contino, or Baroncino, and the younger sons and daughters are styled dei Marchesi, dei Conti, or dei Baroni, according to the title which ennobles the family. Some of the titles are feudal, and devolve with certain estates by perpetual entail. The title is generally added to the surname. When Malta came under British protection, the Royal Commissioners, in the name of King George III. and his successors, promised that the laws, rights, and privileges of the Maltese should be maintained. The Reports of Commissions appointed to decide the claims recognised by the Imperial Government were presented to both Houses of Parliament by command of Her Majesty in May 1878 and August 1883.

The titles of the Maltese Nobility (with surnames) are Count of Bernerrua (Carnana-Gatto), Baron [illegible]

(Testaferrata-Bonici-Ghâxaq), and Baron of Tabria (Testaferrata-Moroni-Viani).

FOREIGN TITLES.

Foreign Titles borne by British subjects do not afford their holders any precedence whatever in this country, and strictly speaking a Royal License should be obtained for their use.

Among Foreign Titles held by British Subjects are those of Baron Bentinck [see "Companionage," and D. Portland, colls.], Count Bentinck [see D. Portland, colls.], Duke of Bronté [see V. Bridport], Marquis de Bucy, Count de Bury and de Bocarmé [see "Companionage"], Baroness de Bush, Countess of Cape St. Vincent [see Jodrell, Bt., colls.], Count of Carsilhas, Baron Craigenish, Count Riccardi-Cubitt, Baron de Hochepied, Baron de Kusel, Marquis de la Pasture, Count de la Poer, Duke de Lousada, Baron de Reuter, Baron de Robeck, Baron de Rutzen, Count de Salis, Duke de Stacpoole, Baron de Teissier, Marquis de Vallado, Count de Vismes, Hon. Baron Dimsdale, Duke and Marquis Gandolfi [see B. Mowbray, Segrave, and Stourton, colls.], Baroness de Goldsmid da Palmeira [see Goldsmid, Bt.], Baron Heath, Count Magawly Cerati de Calry, Count Metaxa, Count Moore, M.D., Marquis del Moral, and Marquis Scicluna. Many other foreign titles are merged in British Peerage dignities or in Baronetcies.
